

Associate Attorney Training Programs

Over our careers, team ESQusite has worked with many young attorneys. Some of our pupils have gone from new lawyers to successful rainmakers. While you are developing your legal skills, we want to develop your marketing and business development skills. Firms that invest in the next generation of leaders and business generators will be in a better position to succeed than those who do not. So, get the youngsters trained on part of the job they typically do not get taught. Your associates, and your firm, will get great value by being trained and you will have a better shot of retaining those who will appreciate the investment in them.

ESQusite offers customized training sessions depending on your needs. Topics that we cover include, but are not limited to, marketing and business development basics, creating a killer bio, sales techniques, social media best practices, creating a personal brand, building a network, finding time to market and client service tips.

Call us to discuss your needs and for pricing. You will be happy that you did.
